

Business Skills Awards

Deadline for entries 20 March 2015

Why apply?

You work within the UK utilities industry and want to develop your skills and career in a manner that isn't possible within your current role.

Offering sponsorship of up to £7,500 to attend an established academic or training course in the UK, this award is primarily designed to assist individuals to benefit from opportunities that would not normally be available to them from their employer's ongoing training and development support arrangements.

The award will concentrate on assisting individuals of any discipline and level who are striving to develop their career in a manner which is seen to be of benefit to the utilities industry.

Previous Business Skills Award Winner:

This award gave me the opportunity to attend a London Business School course to develop strategy for value creation. This was a great developmental opportunity for me personally and WRc. I gained knowledge in the latest strategy practice with tutors that are recognised worldwide. Through the practical work, I was able to benchmark WRc's strategy against a diverse group of organisations across the globe. I enriched my knowledge by learning from other sectors, organisations and fellow students on the course. Since the course, I have been able to apply a lot of my learning to further develop WRc's strategy in the gas sector. Without the USIT grant, I wouldn't have had the chance to access this course.

Business Skills Awards

Sponsorship of up to £7,500 to attend an established academic or training course in the UK which is relevant to the Utilities Industry.

This award is primarily designed to assist individuals to benefit from opportunities that would not normally be available to them from their employer's ongoing training and development support arrangements.

Awards will be made based on industry needs as assessed by the Trustees. The award may also be made available in circumstances where the Trustees are satisfied that alternative sources of funding are not available, to those in full time education wishing to take a qualification of long term benefit to the Utilities Industry.

Awards will be limited to £7,500 and it is recognised that employers may need to finance additional costs. Employers can top up the money offered by USIT, provided the employer's contribution is no more than that made by USIT. In other words, with your employer's agreement, you can apply for £7.5k from USIT to attend a UK course costing up to £15k.

The award will concentrate on assisting individuals of any discipline and level who are striving to develop their career in a manner which is seen to be of benefit to the industry.

USIT Business Skills Award General Conditions

- Applications for support will only be received from individuals who can demonstrate they have the support of their employer (or, where applicable, the appropriate educational establishment) and that their application will be beneficial to their professional development.
- USIT will adopt an inclusive definition of the utilities industries to encompass partner organisations which have framework agreements or period contracts in place for a period in excess of three years. The definition also includes regulators.
- Proposals must not replicate or substitute those activities which should be undertaken by responsible employers as part of their ongoing staff training and development programmes.
- Distance learning programmes may be supportable as may career change programmes provided they satisfy the other criteria.
- In cases of hardship, an amount may be made available, subject to the £7,500 limit, to cover food and lodgings during the period of training.
- Successful applicants must agree, if asked, to give an account of their experience for future promotions relating to the Award.
